300. Dutch Donderglas (Thunder glass)

A Dutch 'Donderglas' with wood wall plaque in elegant Georgian style. A solid hand-turned brass hook and handcrafted brass drop catcher with explanatory legend (in four languages) completes this beautiful and functional wall accessory.

The so-called Dutch 'Donderglas' ('thunder glass') is a glass instrument filled with water and air. During the first half of the 17th century they were the only available weather forecasting instruments, as the first mercury barometers came on the market around 1660. The 'donderglas' was also used on board ship, as they were small and easy to use.

310. Creativity for the Artistically Challenged Adult with Peter H. Reynolds

Peter H. Reynolds, New York Times best-selling author and illustrator (The Dot Ish, The North Star, Judy Moody and Stink series), brings his most popular workshop from his own book store, The Blue Bunny, to NECC 2009. This workshop is always a sellout and a favorite among Bostonians and visitors alike. With Peter as your guide on this part of your NECC Journey, you and four (five) of your closest friends will use watercolors, pencils and your own wonderful imaginations, to create 'your' original. Just don't say you can't draw!

The winner of the workshop will also receive a hand-signed and numbered limited edition Giclee print from Peter H. Reynolds. The 'Link Technology Serving Humanity' illustration was commissioned by the Link Live Inaugural Committee honoring the 44th President of the United States, Barach Obama. The award was also presented to Secretary of State Hillary Rodham Clinton, The Honorable Steven Chu, Secretary of Energy, and the The Honorable Laura Chinchilla, Former Vice President of Costa Rica. The first print has been reserved for Barach Obama, President of the United States.

Restrictions: Workshop to be held Sunday, June 28th during the NECC Conference in Washington D.C. at the CoSN office, located less than a mile from the convention center.

312. “School Chums” an original print by artist Julie Dawson

Julie Dawson, a Michigan artist, says this about the print in the auction: “I did this painting of children we met in Nairobi, Kenya, as they were returning to school from their lunch break. Mamma obviously had found a bolt of cloth, because everyone is wearing something made from the same fabric. When I paint children from third world countries, I think of how vulnerable they are and wonder with great concern how they are progressing. Our time with these children makes my painting them very personal.”
